

My-Lan Le

Hello everyone! My name is My-Lan Le and I am running to be your Internal Vice President next year! As a Molecular, Cell and Developmental Biology and Political Science double major, I am confident that I can relate to the struggles of both north and south campus, considering various perspectives when creating initiatives to serve the entire student body.

The Office of the Internal Vice President especially holds a special place in my heart since it has been a large part of my life since my first year at UCLA. My first year, I served on three committees where I was able to participate in various initiatives including promoting transformative justice on campus, outreaching to over 100+ student organizations and planning various institutionalized events. My second year, I served as the Institutionalized Events director where I led the planning of events such as the Off-Campus Living Fair, Finals De-Stress Events and more! With these experiences, I believe that I am well equipped to run an office as crucial as the IVP.

I unequivocally believe in putting the people over politics to create truly effective changes. I want to help students become more connected to USAC, student organizations and each other through my time in office, taking into account all perspectives to make our community a more accessible and inclusive space. Together, we will ensure that students and student organizations have an avenue to directly influence changes that affect us as a student body.
